Guidelines for authors

The journal publishes research articles (ca 45,000 characters), book reviews (ca 9,000 characters), news (ca 9,000 characters), expert essays (ca 27,000 characters) or possibly texts in other sections concerning current scientific knowledge in the field of social education. The texts must be original manuscripts not published previously and not granted by the author to be published elsewhere. The editor's office accepts manuscripts in Czech, Slovak, English and other languages – with English translation.

Manuscripts are submitted as attachments to an email addressed to editorsoced@fhs.utb.cz or upon logging into the journal website interface. To simplify authors' work, a template containing a published research article is available and information that author declares that this is the original study and text in this form has never been published or submitted for publication. Along with the template authors use title page. This document contains the authors' affiliation, ORCID ID and contact information for potential reviewers.

The review process of the article manuscripts is mutually blind and lasts from one to two months, based on the received reviews. The aim of the blind review process is to reduce the possible biases of the reviewers. The reviewers are members of the journal editorial board and part-time journal fellows. Reviews of books and news articles are reviewed by the editor of the appropriate section.

The papers are checked by anti-plagiarism software Crossref Similarity Check before publication of an article. Editorial board has the exclusive right to have a final decision on publishing the manuscript, or suspend/exclude manuscript in any stage of the review process based on generally deductible reasons. However, the authors of manuscripts have no legal claim to the publication of their manuscripts at any stage of the review process.

Sociální pedagogika | Social Education journal is a double blind peer-reviewed scientific journal. As the journal follows the open access policy, the articles are available free in the electronic form in the journal's website. The term "open access" means unrestricted online access to peer-reviewed research, enabling any user to read, download, copy, print, search, or create links to the fulltexts of articles. More detailed author guidelines are available at <http://soced.cz/en/for-authors>

Copyright

As the publisher bears the cost of editing and publishing the journal, authors are not required to charge for publishing in the journal. Consequently, articles are available for readers free of cost. Before publication of the article, the author is asked to sign a contract of transferring exclusive copyright to the publisher (FH TBU). The author is not permitted to re-publish the article in other journal or other media without written consent from the publisher.

Sociální pedagogika | Social Education journal adheres to the principles outlined by COPE – Commission for publication Ethics and refer to the Council of Science Editors White Paper on Promoting Integrity in Scientific Journal Publications, Section 3.5 on Correcting the Literature; Creative Commons license CC BY; APA Citation Guide; Open Access policy and provide a standard way for readers to locate the authoritative version of a document by uses CrossMark (Cross-Ref).

Call for Papers

Single-topic issue 10(1), April 2022

Topic: Social Education target groups

Editor-in-chief: Lenka Gulová, František Trapl & Lenka Ďulíková

Authors are warmly invited to submit papers for the April issue

Year 10 / Number 1 / April 2022

Through its action, social education has the potential to reach a broad spectrum of diverse target groups. These groups include not just children, adolescents and adults, but particular attention is also focused on elderly groups, in particular in regard to their activation. Another important issue in social education involve groups which are socially disadvantaged, such as the Romani and members of other national and ethnic minorities, as well as, for example, single mothers, parents affected by various pathologies, people in difficult social situations, etc. We focus mainly on prevention, motivation and activation amongst social education target groups, rather than intervention. We therefore cannot interchange social education with the action of social work. This does not, however, reject the possible overlap and co-operation between these disciplines, but we do endeavour to value and underscore different levels of social education work. In regard to social education target groups, we must also bear social education methods in mind. What can we consider the methods of social education, and what is their potential today and in future, what theories are they based on and what role does social education research play here? These are questions which authors may also posit for this call.

Call for Papers

Single-topic issue 10(2), November 2022

Topic: The historical roots of social education

Editor-in-chief: Miroslav Procházka

Authors are warmly invited to submit papers for the November issue

Year 10 / Number 2 / November 2022

One of the characteristics of evolving science is its ability to reflect its historical development, and map and analyse the thought sources it is based on and in which ideological support is found in discussions on contemporary problems. Social education has a rich historical tradition in this regard, unique in its broad interdisciplinary scope and theoretical and practical focus. We can find here figures representing philosophical, philosophical-anthropological, sociological and educational thought, who have laid the foundations for social education as a theoretical science. Their opinions on the social role of education as a stabilising element for society can bring answers in seeking the substance of a wide range of current problems. Also inspiring, however, are the personal examples of individuals or movements engaged in practical social education activities. Examples of positive social education work, in particular with marginalised individuals or groups, can be an important signal for the field's potential in actively resolving current social and educational problems.

The single-topic edition of the journal being prepared anticipates papers focused on mapping the historical roots of social education, and the field's history can be related both to the ideological roots of social education in the period prior to fields actual constitution, and also to its ideological foundations in the 19th and 20th centuries. Thus authors' manuscripts can be focused on the following:

- schools of thought looking at integrating social educational thought into a separate academic field;
- figures of social education and an assessment of their lives and works for the field's development;
- examples of social educational work in the 19th and 20th centuries;
- formulating opinions on the concept of the subject of social education in an historical context.
